Outline of Courses

BEGINNERS

Level 1A This is for complete beginners with no prior knowledge of the language. Students will be introduced to Latin pronunciation and sentence structure as well as basic grammar and syntax. Topics to be covered include: first and second declension nouns, first-second declension adjectives, first and second conjugation verbs (present and imperfect tenses), the irregular verbs “to be” and “to be able”, prepositions and conjunctions. A composite course booklet will be provided.

Tutor: Andrew Miles

Level 1B This will begin with the basics, and move into simple translation with lots of grammar. For those who have begun Latin but have not progressed very far. Topics to be covered include: first, second and third declension nouns and adjectives, comparative and superlative adjectives, indicative active verbs (present, imperfect, perfect and pluperfect), imperative and infinitive verbs. A composite course booklet will be provided.

Tutors: Kate Edwards and Tegan Gleeson

STARTING AGAIN

Level 1C If you did some Latin some time (or a long time!) ago and want to go back to the beginning, this is the course for you. It will cover grammar and readings. Grammar topics to be covered depend on the needs of the class, but might include: nouns (all declensions), verbs (all conjugations), indirect commands, statements and questions, result and purpose clauses, expressions of wish, gerunds and gerundives, and case usage. A composite course booklet will be provided.

Tutor: Barbara Twomey and Peter Kalina

INTERMEDIATE

Level 2A This requires some knowledge of Latin grammar which will be developed, and classes will be split between reading passages of original Latin and grammar work. Grammar topics to be covered depend on the needs of the class, but might include: the introduction of subjunctive forms, indirect statements, ablative absolutes, and conditionals. A composite course booklet will be provided.

Tutors: John Coombs and Mike Salter

Level 2B This will have greater emphasis on extensive graded readings with (optional) prior preparation, while grammar will be revised and extended. You should be familiar with all tenses and cases, but not necessarily passives or subjunctives. Grammar topics to be covered depend on the needs of the class, but might include: revision of verb forms (and introduction of passive or subjunctive forms as required), word order and tactics for reading Latin sentences, gerunds and gerundives, case usage, uses of the subjunctive, revision of noun and adjective declensions and participles: a composite course booklet will be provided. Tutor: Alexander Westenberg

Level 2C This will be more challenging than 2B, with plenty of readings and grammar revision. Prior preparation of the readings is essential. Grammar topics to be covered depend on the needs of the class, but might include: uses of the ablative, ablative absolutes, gerunds and gerundives, purpose and result clauses, sequence of tenses, indirect statements, relative clauses in indirect discourse. A composite course booklet will be provided.

Tutors: Damaris Wikramanayake and Andrew Gollan

INTERMEDIATE PLUS

Level 3A This is designed to widen your reading experience with a variety of original Latin texts, and will include work on style, interpretation, scansion and reading technique. Prior preparation of the readings is essential. Grammar will be explained as needed. Suitable for students sitting the HSC exams in 2022, and for undergraduates with one year's Latin.

Tutors and material to be studied:

Lisa Aronson: Martial and Pliny the Younger

You will have three teachers, once each day, and read all three groups of texts.

Level 3B The course at Level 3B involves a wider range of readings requiring preparation. Grammar will be explained as needed. For students who already have an HSC qualification in Latin (or equivalent). Composite course booklets will be provided and will focus on Latin from Late Antiquity.

Tutors and material to be studied: Sarah Lawrence and Michelle McVeigh -
